

The project sponsor, Melissa Welsh, is a national award-winning photographer and also the founder of Pixel Cents. She operates a studio in downtown Victoria and dedicates much of her time to promoting positive change in the photography industry.

As a professional photographer herself, she decided to start this project to help other photographers struggling to make their businesses profitable and maintainable.

The goal of this project is to build a web application to help photographers keep track of their revenue goals and track their status accurately and more efficiently. The web application adopts responsive web design to make the web pages look modern and fit any screen size.
